

The Disrupted Mind

Processes that influence mindset change during the different stages of a crisis.

- Threat creates fear and disorientation
- Chaos renders heuristics useless
- People search for explanations to find comfort in certainty
- Surge of conspiracy theories
- New experiences are normalised or rejected
- Risk of societal fragmentation and polarisation
- Crisis experience and mindsets vanish or become the norm
- Accumulated anger can lead to social unrest
- New mindsets continue influencing the system
